CDS levels 5-year, bp

Ben Bernanke's comment on tapering off QE3 negatively affected emerging markets including their CDS levels. Polish contracts reached the maximum level in the 2nd part of 2013. Currently the contracts are decreasing, approaching gradually the levels of CDS of the higher rated countries.

Piotr Marczak, Director of the Public Debt Department, MoF
26-06-2013

"In July EUR 1bn loan from the World Bank will be drawn. Including this loan, 91% of the annual State budget borrowing requirements will have been financed. Taking into consideration scheduled non-marketable financing, there will be about PLN 7bn to be financed yet. (...)

High portion of the State budget borrowing requirements already financed, further liquid funds increase, volatile situation on the financial markets as well as summer holidays time justify the decrease of Treasury securities supply in the forthcoming months. Thus Treasury securities auctions will be suspended in July and August. Simultaneously, subject to market feedback, i.e. further stabilization in financial markets and a substantial demand for Polish Treasury securities, we allow the possibility of organizing auction during the summer break. Hence the supply plan for the 3rd quarter shows summer auctions as conditional ones.

In July PLN 9.5bn will be transferred from the budget to the market as interest payments and bonds redemptions. Additionally, almost PLN 2bn will be transferred to Open Pension Funds. Nearly PLN 11.5bn of funds flowing to the market will contribute to further stabilization on Polish debt market. In August we will redeem the last outstanding T-bills, thereby for the first time ever the indebtedness in T-bills will drop to zero.

Foreign investors' portfolio in May practically did not changed, as the result of net sale of T-bonds by foreign investors in the last days of May. In June foreign investors holdings decreased by ca. 2%. Domestic entities benefited from the T-bonds sale by few foreign investors and bought the securities at favourable prices."
